JAHNAVI KIRTANE

Project Manager

jkirtane@speckdempsey.com

Jahnavi Kirtane is a Project Manager at Speck Dempsey, where she leads urban planning and design projects focused on building walkable places. Her experience spans the public, private, and non-profit sectors in diverse geographic and social contexts, from Brookline, MA, to Louisville, KY, to Greeley, CO. These projects have ranged from street design to regional planning exercises, and she specializes in navigating the public process, balancing local perspectives with each community's unique economic, environmental, and political character. Outside of the office, Jahnavi enjoys biking, running, walking, and hiking around cities and national parks.
